Paratransit Services Wins Accessible Transit Contract in Nevada County, California

Bremerton, Washington – May 22, 2013 – Following a procurement process that began last October, the County of Nevada (California) has awarded to Bremerton-based Paratransit Services the contract to manage and operate specialized paratransit services in Western Nevada County. Service under the new 5-year contract will begin July 1.

Western Nevada County is located in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains in Northeastern California. The public transit system consists of Gold Country Stage, a fixed route system operated directly by the County, and Western Nevada Paratransit, a Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) door-to-door system to be operated by Paratransit Services. Service is provided to the communities of Nevada City, Grass Valley, Rough and Ready, Penn Valley, and Lake Wildwood. Paratransit Services' new office will be located in Grass Valley.

Founded in northwestern Washington in 1980, Paratransit Services currently manages public transit systems in the states of Washington, Oregon, and Northern California, and a Non-Emergency Medical Transportation brokerage serving nine counties in Washington.
